Greek Government Guerrilla War Over; U. S. May Reduce Aid

Washington, Oct. 19 (P)—Secretary of State Acheson said today that the Greek government's war with Communist-led guerrillas is practically over. Reduction of American aid to Greece would seem to be an indicated step, he added.

Acheson told his news conference that there are only about 2,000 guerrillas left in Greece and they are widely scattered and mainly concerned with a search for food.

Before there is a decision on cutting American military assistance to the Greek government, Acheson said the U.S. will have to find out what the Athens regime proposes to do with its military establishment. American aid has been given for more than two years.

Reduction of the Greek armed forces-which number more than 200,000 - would seem to be an

Restaurants Need De Luxe Hamburger, Says Eatery Expert

Atlanta, Oct. 19 (AP)-What the restaurant business needs to prosper, an expert says, is a 21-cent hamburger selling for 55 cents instead of a 9-cent hamburger selling for 20 cents.

George L. Wensel, a consultant to restauranteurs, told 250 Georgia operators yesterday that the 20cent burger is an example of what will ruin them, sooner or later. Its food cost of 9 cents, he warned, is 45 per cent of the selling price-5 per cent too much for a going profit.

"Why not glorify the hamburger?" he said enthusiastically. "Make it good with 15 cents worth of meat, two-cent bun and four cents of relish for a total of 21 John Hicks, who was called to Mr. cents. X X X

The Senate yesterday approved two measures calling for an outlay of $239,000,000 a year to raise the salaries of 885,000 civil service workers and 500,000 postoffice employes. Both bills were compromises between Senate and House bills passed earlier.

The civil service raises average $140 a year; the postal increases for regular employes, $120. Part-time postoffice workers would get raises on a per-

State Opens Field On Tire Purchases

Lansing, (P)-The State Administrative Board agreed to let any automobile tire manufacturer sell its product to the state.

The board acted on complaint of Harold Alexander of Bay City, representative of a large independent manufacturer. Previous complaints had been received from other manufacturer's agents.

State Controller Robert F. Steadman told the board that since 1943 the state has been buying tires only from manufacturers who installed tires on new cars This limited the field to the "Big Four" of the tire industry, he reported. This policy, he said, was based on a lack of proper specifications to impose on tire dealers which would protect the state.

It would be presumed by the committee from its experiences and findings country-wide that during the winter season additional smoke sources will be found in many commercial establishments and from public school units.

"The responsibility for a considerable volume of excess smoke can therefore be attributed to The nurse, Jeanne Durfee, 25, municipally owned and operated plants, among which are the city steam heating plant and gas plant to which the schools in winter should be added.

"Smoke and dust from the operations is at a minimum during the winter months. The same observation can be made of smoke made by lake vesvels and the railroad operations which supply them.

"The smoke from railroad activities in Escanaba impressed itself on committee engineers as the chief contributor to the air pollution problem. That from roundhouse operations was observed to be particularly voluminous and of excessive densities.

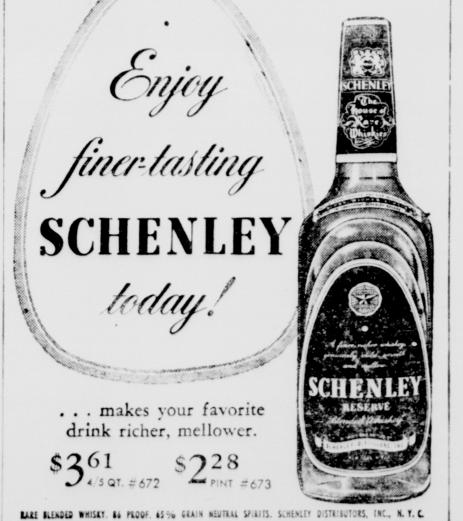

"The railroad as a group have the knowledge and equipment to abate these conditions to minimum standards. Proper cooperative measures between the city and the railroads can bring about correction of the present problem. The use and enforcement of normal emission standards by the city applicable to railroad smoke in a new ordinance can effect a marked improvement without any undue hardship on the railroads

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.-Last year, the 80th congress investigated an army propaganda mill wheih used taxpayers' money to sell the American public on military conscription; while Senator Byrd of Virginia also criticized any branch of the government that issued a press handout publicizing its operation

But today there operates backstage in the navy, a secret publicity bureau almost solely dedicated to smearing the army and air forces and disrupting unification.

The publicity bureau is called "Operation 23" and it consists of 12 officers and 17 enlisted men, all on regular duty and officially assigned to this detail. The detail is commanded by a full-fledged naval captain, Capt. Airliegh Burke, with Commander Thomas Davies second in command.

This undergraund unit takes orders chiefly from Admiral Arthur Radford, outspoken critic of the B-36.

Significantly, Operation 23 has been flooding newspapers with anti-army propaganda at the same time an official naval board has been investigating another navy smear—the secret memo which claimed that Secretaries Symington and Johnson ordered the B-36 because of personal or monetary gain.

This vicious myth, now completely exploded, was written by Cedric Worth, a civilian naval employe-or at least he assumed responsibility. Worth, it now develops, was a part of Operation 23. And even before the board of admirals had finished its probe of the Worth smear, more propaganda began flooding the newspapers—some of it sent through the medium of Naval Reserve Capt. James Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner.

Note-One member of Operation 23 is Lt. Sam Ingram, a naval reservist. Ingram reported for two weeks' active duty one year ago, wrote Admiral Radford a letter castigating the air force, got a call from Radford to drip in for a personal visit. The visit lasted two hours, and Lt. Ingram has been on permanent duty turning out cartoons and charts against the air force ever since. His salary for that year of sniping at another branch of the armed services was paid for by the taxpayer.

This is the first known record of this kind of bird in Michigan, and the observations French police as Miss Patricia Curator of Birds of the Michigan day from the second platform of Museum of Zoology.

The burrowing owl is normally at home in the wide, open plains and prairie country of the far west. It usually does not inhabit farming land, but is more or less restricted to the primitive conditions so typical of the extensive range country of the west.

This owl is about eight inches tall, has very long legs and a short tail. It is a characteristically light brown and white in color with a small white feathered throat patch which continues as a narrow white strip down the midine of the breast. The legs are feathered to the toes. Burrowing owls are very beneficial birds of prey; their principal foods are insects, small mice, and shrews.

In their preferred home range, the burrowing owl spends much of the time in abandoned burrows of prairie dogs, coyotes, foxes, woodchucks, and other range animals. The female nests in these vacated burrows and the young ows when hatched remain and adopt this peculiar bird home until they are large enough to fly. This habit is doubtless where it acquires its common name, burrowing owl, though it does not actually do any burrowing or dig-

A number of pecular superstitions and stories have been associated with the burrowing owl. Most of these tales probably arise from the bird's habit of living in burrows near prairie dog "towns." One story has it that these owls live in close association with rattlesnakes and prairie dogs. It is possible that rattlesnakes may watch of the weather is the chief of 10 U. S. Public Health Ser vice recommendations for preventing future smog catastrophes such as hit the small industrial town of Donora, Pa., a year ago.

If forecasts show a possibility of weather inversion, industria plants should either be shut down or cut down their operations enough to reduce "sharply" the amount of contamination going out into the air.

A weather inversion, such as asted five days in Donora last October, occurs when a layer of warm air settles over the ground air, preventing the usual updrafts.

The other nine Public Health service recommendations have to do with reducing the gaseous and solid particle contamination of the air from both industrial plants and home heating plants, steam locomotives and steamboats. The recommendations come from an 11-month, exhaustive study of the Donora situation. They presumably apply to other areas where a Europeans, they argue, won't be able to afford as much coffee, and the bean will gravitate in even greater heaps to the shores of the well-heeled Yankees.

Coffee isn't the only thing that is flowing to this shore because we are the world's wealthiest people, and the world's highest living people. The fatter we live, the more industries around the world are being supported. But for the time being, at least, it widens the gap between the standards of austerity abroad and of luxury here.

The American housewife drives down to the store for a can of beans, instead of walking. This is of first importance to the rubber planter of Malaya. She has become his best customer. Most American families have the money to buy and run a car and to enjoy wide, comfortable tires with lots of rubber in them.

> Americans, with money burning holes in their pockets, can be chain-smokers, or can afford to take a few puffs and leave almost all of the cigarette to burn a hole in the table or rug. Europeans can afford to import so little tobacco that chain-smoking must be too costly to be common. And the Turkish tobacco growers look more and more to us as the market for their costliest leaves.

THE cold spell had come with a snap. And with it, a steady drizzle. Charlie, the night repairman at the telephone office, was on his guard. Just before midnight things began to happen.

Warning lights in the central office began to flash on indicating trouble on the lines. With a quick telephone call, Charlie alerted the outside repair crew.

A check of the "trouble" wires showed that they all came from a certain cable. And a glance at a huge chart showed the route of that cable through the streets. Charlie began checking the various pairs of wires with a testing meter, which told him approximately how far out on the cable the trouble would be found.

Another telephone call sent the repair crew on its way to the trouble area. There, by means of additional testing devices, they located the exact spot they were seeking and found the cable "breathing."

The sudden change in temperature from warm to cold had opened up tiny cracks in the lead sheath around the cable. Moisture was creeping into the insulation and short-circuiting the wires.

Promptly, the cable sheath was opened. Into the opening was poured a new type of drying powder which quickly absorbed the moisture and dried out the wires. Then the opening was closed.

Back in the central office, Charlie answered a call. "Everything's okay!" reported the repair crew chief. Charlie connected the wires back into the system. Service was restored.

The telephone service you buy never sleeps. By being prepared around the clock, Michigan Bell can meet service interruptions promptly. Catching trouble before it gets out of hand keeps down repair and maintenance costs and helps to assure you good and dependable telephone service.

A Marquette wedding of interest in Escanaba and Gladstone is that of Miss Jean Henne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Henne, 315 West Ridge street, Marquette, and John Arthur Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Beck of Escanaba which took place Saturday morning, October 15, at 11 o'clock in the rectory of St. John's church, Rev. Raymond Garin officiating.

Bouquets of yellow and white chrysanthemums formed the setting for the service.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father wore a burgandy tissue faille afternoon gown styled with a fitted bodice, rolled neckline, bracelet length sleeves and slightly full skirt and a close-fitting hat of dove grey chiffon velvet. Her jewelry was a gold necklace the bridegroom's gift and she carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli and pink carnations. Her cousin, Miss Delores Cardinal of Big Bay, who was her attendant, wore teal blue faille with a brown velvet hat and white carnations and yellow chrysanthemums formed her bouquet. Donald Dufresne of Escanaba was best man for Mr. Beck.

Dinner and Reception Mrs. Henne attended the wedding in an autumn green crepe dress with which she wore a beige hat and a corsage of gold and bronze pompons and Mrs. Beck wore a black crepe ensemble with orchid and white pompons.

The wedding dinner for immediate family members was served at the Chalet and a reception for 150 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. Autumn flowers formed the decorations in the home for the reception. The serving table at which Mrs. Stafford LeDuc, a sister of the bridegroom, Miss Kay Cheadler and Miss Hazel Alholm presided, was covered with an imported Belgian lace cloth which has been in the family for 50 years, festooned with smilax and centered with yellow and white chrysanthemums and white cathedral tapers in crystal holders. The three-tiered wedding cake on a small side table was encircled with white for his toileting needs, run errands carnations and greenery and white cathedral candles were at either

Manner Of Corson Motor Accident Is Explained

William A. Corson, hurt Sunday in a motor accident near Gaylord, is suffering from a broken collarbone, several broken ribs and numerous bruises, according to a report Tuesday from the Mercy hospital at Grayling. His condition, according to report, is satisfactory, but it will be at least two weeks before he will be able to

The mishap occurred when the Corsons were approaching the crest of a hill and met two cars coming abreast from the other side. The car that was attempting to pass the other, described as a obin's egg colored Buick, was driven at a high rate of speed and was forced to drive outside of the Corson car. This forced Corson to crowd to the center and he unavoidably crashed into the other

The impact was so great that Corson was thrown almost 30 feet from the car. The driver of the other car was also seriously injured and is reported to be in critical condition. Both cars were badly wrecked.

The driver of the car which caused the mishap sped on and has not as yet been identified. The only clew is the color of the car and the "D" on the license plate. Mrs. Corson, daughter Margaret and son Robert, who were with

Mr. Corson, were uninjured.
